Created to support local artists of all experience levels and located within The Washington Center for the Performing Arts, The Center Gallery presents between 4-6 shows a year during the theater season, which runs from September to June. The gallery is open to the public Monday through Friday from 10:00AM-4:00PM by appointment, and to patrons during performances. We are also frequently open during community events such as Arts Walk and Downtown for the Holidays. Since we are a working theater first, there may be instances when the gallery may not be available for viewing. We encourage potential visitors to contact us at (360) 753-8585 ext. 101 to ensure that the gallery will be open.

The Center Gallery is different from regular retail galleries. While we may not have consistent business hours for gallery visitors, we do have a select, art-appreciating clientele and a significant level of foot traffic. We have more than 100,000 guests enter through our doors annually. We are more than willing to work with an artist for portfolio photography, private showings, etc. if advance notice is given and dates and times pre-arranged.

Publicity

The images and information you provide may be used for publicity and marketing if your work is selected for an exhibition. We will help promote the show with an advertisement in our program, and to our Friends of The Washington Center mailing list, as well as posters and printed announcements designed in-house and distributed locally.

Installation

The Washington Center for Performing Arts is a working theater, installation dates are carefully worked into the schedule depending on numerous other events and rentals. Once the gallery is booked for your show, you, the artist are expected to arrive at the time of the hang with your work show-ready. Please contact us if you have questions regarding the installation, or potential display requirements for any artworks that have been selected for exhibition. We do have a limited amount of space available on the balcony level for sculpture or three-dimensional art, however, we do not provide display pedestals.

Typically, the installation will take three days with placement comprising most of the first day. The artist is encouraged to participate in the installation and may bring up to 3 helpers to expedite the process, however, the Gallery Coordinator and up to 2 WCPA Volunteers will always be available. The Center provides ladders as well as nails & hooks, however, if your items need special installation such as shelving, pedestals, or other mounting materials, you may need to provide them. It is recommended that artist(s) schedule a visit to scout the space in advance of any show/hang decisions.

Art Reception

The Washington Center will reserve an evening during your exhibition for an "Artist Reception." The reception date will be determined by the Executive Director based off of schedule availability. This is a free public event and may occur before a ticketed main-stage event in order to increase awareness and publicity of the art exhibition.

Sales

The Washington Center Gallery will provide services to anyone interested in purchasing artwork and retains 25% + 3.5% of credit card fees for artwork sold. Our Box Office team must be provided with a list of all items and prices once the installation is set; they are prepared to process cash, checks and credit cards, and will hold all proceeds until the close of the show. Art work that is sold may be collected at the end of the exhibition; any shipping costs will be paid by the buyer.
